pricing

Even though our school portrait service is high end, our prices are not. We have competitive rates with nothing due up front. Parents are not forced to buy unseen as they order only the images they love and have chosen for themselves online. No pre-payments!

No costs for the schools we serve!

Our lead photographer Paul is originally from Germany, where he built a successful school photography business, that has captured thousands of students every year for over more than a decade. He is now bringing his experience and passion for photography with him to California. Paul is happily married to an elementary school teacher and has three children. He enjoys drinking coffee and spending time at the beach with his family and his two little dogs Happy and Bella.
